

Perimeter Sound Arts, as Licensor, grants you, the Licensee, a limited, nonexclusive right to use this loop sample content for your own individual use as producer or writer/co-writer. You are free to use this content in your own original compositions without restriction. None of this content may be resold or redistributed as loops, samples, or music beds unless it is integrated into your own works without written consent from Perimeter Sound. Please also note that your usage license for these loop samples cannot be sold or transferred to anyone else, pursuant to local/federal/national/international laws.

You may not - 1) distribute, share, sublicense, lend, lease or otherwise make this content available to any third party, 2) nor modify, adapt, create derivative works from or translate any part of the content, other than as integrated by you into your work in accordance with this license agreement.

In other words, these loop samples are yours free to use as you wish in your music, even in commercial projects, whether you have purchased them from our website or on a physical cd/dvd. You are only not allowed to redistribute them as they are, or modify them individually and redistribute them. A musical work can consist of as little as one loop, and one other track performed by you, for the purposes of this license. Meaning simply, adding an effect to, or editing in some way, one of our loop samples, then calling it your own and selling/redistributing it is not allowed. We do encourage you to add effects to the loop samples, and chop them up however you wish within the context of a multi-track musical work of your own.

Also, if you are co-writer or producer of a track that is not released in your name, but has your name in the credits and will receive writer's royalties through Ascap/Bmi/etc., or synch fees or master use fees as producer, those are also acceptable legal uses (by you the original purchaser) for this material.

Thank you for your business, and we hope you enjoy using this audio material in your music.

Todd Milne

Jeff Rhodes